

UTAH MANUFACTURERS
ASSOCIATION

Utah Manufacturer of the Year Awards

Manufacturing is not short of great examples of excellence and we know success is achieved by organizations of all shapes and sizes.

Recognizing companies of different sizes face different challenges in their manufacturing processes, awards will be presented to “Manufacturers of the Year” for several different categories according to the number of employees within the company. We anticipate this format will afford an opportunity for additional companies to compete with like-sized companies within the manufacturing industry.

All manufacturers with a significant presence in Utah are invited to apply. Your company does not need to be headquartered in Utah. Nominations for the award can be submitted from any person or group. (Nominate Companies with whom you do business). Self-nominations are encouraged.

We encourage your participation and look forward to honoring the tremendous efforts made by outstanding manufacturing companies in the state of Utah.

UMA Manufacturer of the Year MOTY Award Submission

Tell the judges your story with words, photos, charts and graphs. Most complete applications are 10-15 pages in length, including financial information. Include the following items in a profile of your company:

1. Introductory statement. Provide an up-to-700-word statement detailing why your company deserves to win the Manufacturer of the Year (MOTY) award. This section is for you to demonstrate what sets you apart from your competitors.

2. Product description. Include graphs and photos as the judges may find it easier to understand the material if photos are included. Please do not submit actual product samples or product catalogs/brochures.

3. Manufacturing process. Include information on any environmental solutions/innovations and the impact of those solutions, R&D leadership and/or application of high technology that makes your company stand out.

4. Operational performance and best practices. Examples of excellent practices and operational excellence will help paint a picture of your company.

5. Fidelity to the Principles of Free Enterprise. Highlight how your company has and is committed to the principles of free enterprise and how that has benefitted your company as a whole and helped you excel.

6. Community, State Involvement and Outreach. Include information that demonstrates your leadership in the industry and community. Your impact and association with the community, state and outreach efforts that merit your receiving of an award. This should also include articles and awards.

7. Economic Achievement and/or financial stability. You do not have to wait to experience tremendous growth or overcome adversity to submit an application. Many winners in the program's history have simply been well-run, solid performing manufacturers.

It is important that the judges understand that a company is financially sound. Submission of lengthy financial reports is not necessary, but concisely demonstrating growth and profitability is extremely relevant from the judges perspective in the overall review and selection of winners.

At minimum, please include the following information for the past three years: annual sales revenue, economic achievements through percentage growth in sales and net revenue percentage increases and any other pertinent information for judges to review.

Your outside auditor is welcome to submit a letter of recommendation for the judges to review and consider, either with the nomination, or separately. Your auditor should focus on the growth and stability of your company. We see this component as being more marketing than technical. They need to "sell" your company just like you're doing with your nomination. A letter from your outside auditor, however, is not required.

Any financial information provided will be kept confidential and judges are asked to sign confidentiality agreements prior to review of the material.
